

Bereavement center opens

The Joseph T. Quinlan Bereavement Center of the Karen Ann Quinlan Hospice hosted an open house recently at its new facility on Washington Street, Hackettstown. The center is open to area residents and hospice families, and will serve as a resource site for professionals in health care and education. On hand were, from left, hospice co-founder and President Julia Quinlan; Cecelia Clayton, director of bereavement; and Hackettstown Mayor Roger Hines. The center is named for Mrs. Quinlan's late husband, who was Karen Ann's father.
